

Chaminade College Preparatory Named Model School

To present best practices at 17th Annual Model Schools Conference, June 28 – July 1 in Atlanta

Chatsworth, CA: Chaminade College Preparatory has been selected as one of 20 model schools for 2009 by the International Center for Leadership in Education. Chaminade is the first Catholic school selected in the seventeen year history of the Conference. The chosen schools will share their best practices at the 17th Annual Model Schools Conference, June 28-July 1 in Atlanta. The Model Schools Conference is the nation's premier event for K-12 education reform.

Each year, the Conference attracts thousands of educators, who come to learn about exemplary elementary, middle, high schools and career and technical education programs. Model schools are selected annually based on high student achievement in all subgroups, providing all students with a rigorous and relevant curriculum, personalized instruction, increased student learning time, parent and community involvement, use of data to make instructional decisions, and other best practices. Case studies prepared by the International Center on Chaminade College Preparatory and the other model schools serve as a resource for educators and policymakers.

“We are delighted that this exceptional school will be sharing its best practices, which mirror the International Center's mission of providing a rigorous and relevant education to all students,” said Willard R. Daggett, President of the International Center.

The process of identifying and analyzing schools is part of a major joint initiative of the Successful Practices Network, International Center and the Council of Chief State School Officers, with financial support from the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation.

“It is an honor to be included in this prestigious group of Model Schools and even more humbling to be chosen as the first Catholic School to receive this honor. Chaminade is truly grateful for this distinction and we look forward to sharing our best practices at the Annual Model Schools Conference this summer,” says James V. Adams, President of Chaminade College Preparatory.
